

Astra Nova covers another milestone by the launch of its new Website and LMS system

Astra Nova's recent development is the launch of their new website and online learning platform - LMS (LEARNING MANAGEMENT SYSTEM). The new website presents a wide range of relevant opportunities across web technology, e-learning and continuing education in the health professions. Astra nova learning management system is designed to automate and streamline continuing medical education (CME) in medical associations, academic medical centres, education companies, and healthcare systems.

Astra Nova is a UK-based training company dedicated to providing education solutions within the Pharmaceutical and Clinical Research industries. Their aim is to institute the chief international network of trainers, which would allow companies worldwide access to an infinite number of topics to train their staff in. The miscellany of topics they wrap and their international arrive makes them most expedient collaborator for all types of organizations worldwide.

Our website consists online training courses developed by imperative industry experts and are designed by leading user experience (UX) professionals to maximize the learning curve and to ensure acquiescence and supreme user experience.

Astra Nova's Learning Management System is just the most awesome, didactic educational platform ever built. This LMS is a stout and flexible, web-based technology that tracks and manages all aspects of a medical facility's personnel training requirements, CEUs, CME's, contact hours, and department mandates required by federal, state, local agencies and organizations. The system allows your organization to track corporate and clinical mandates that medical professionals are required to pass. The Astra Nova Learning Management System also provides track classes such as ambulatory, critical access hospital, disease-specific care, laboratory, nursing and other specialties.

Astra Nova aims high to bring development and prosperity in the industry, because it does not believe in just following trends. By launching the new WEBSITE and LEARNING MANAGEMENT SYSTEM, its goal is to create a specific environment that would provide optimal opportunities for the life sciences to flourish and get better and gradually best as this gives everyone a field for professional growth. It is here to generate elegant business strategies that would aid people realize their potential and build up their professional skills and qualification.

PDF Version of this article available here: <https://crotraining.co.uk/?p=3264>